Governor Sulzer Impeached

The impeachment of Governor Sulzer in the New York legislature, and the prompt presentation to the state senate of the articles of impeachment voted by the house, brings to a crisis the sensational political fight that has been waged between Governor Sulzer and Charles F. Murphy, Tammany's chief. The wonder in it all must be that Sulzer, knowing his vulnerability, and recognizing the make-up of the legislature, which, though democratic, is hostile to him, had the temerity to enter into his fight with Murphy. It was not only rash in him under the circumstances, to bring on that open fight, it was suicidal; for Governor Sulzer could be perfectly sure in advance that whatever there was available in his record Murphy would know of it, and would not scruple in the least to take advantage of everything that he knew.

The successive public arraignments of Governor Sulzer began with the challenge of his veracity and his good faith. Then came the breach of promise suit against him, evidently instigated by Tammany; then the fight between Sulzer and the New York senate; then the damaging charges that Sulzer had sworn falsely as to his campaign receipts and expenses, and finally the charge that he had used campaign contributions that came into his hands for the purpose of private speculation in his personal behalf in New York, and this when he was openly pretending to fight the stock exchange. All these made a succession of charges against Sulzer which ought to have been promptly met by the governor, but which were not so met. As to the final one of these charges, the effort of Mrs. Sulzer to relieve the governor by saying that she is the one who took the money and speculated in New York, is so incredible as to challenge public credence, for how would she get control of that campaign money? That is the crucial question of all, and while her veracity is not to be challenged, her statement is no wise relief to Governor Sulzer.

It is a most unfortunate and lamentable outcome for the governor. He is a man who deserves a better fate than to be left in the hands of his political enemies under circumstances of such humiliation and discouragement.

The senators before whom Governor Sulzer will be tried on the articles of impeachment are antagonistic to him; still, the membership of that body must be given the benefit of whatever doubt may be entertained as to their good faith in dealing with Governor Sulzer. Yet, with politicians engaged in a savage fight, to expect leniency or consideration for a foe that is wounded and down, is probably hopeless. The outlook is dark for New York's governor.

Something Wrong There

Something is the matter with the management of the Panama Pacific Exposition and it is only feared that the trouble is more than skin deep. Men like Spreckels and De Young do not withdraw from such public matters without having good reason for their conduct. Beneath an apparently happy exterior there is an indefinable something that anywhere else would be ascribed to lack of public spirit. But in California there is always a surplus of energy for the advancement of local interests and the people of that state have always had the faculty of convincing others that the axe of terrestrial excellence was located in the banana belt of the Pacific champion. Nevertheless it must be said there is more than a cloud hovering above the prospect of the exposition. Spreckels has defied popular sentiment to the extent of withholding in his subscription of $25,000 and M. H. De Young, owner of the San Francisco Chronicle, declines to continue as chairman of the committee of concessions.

The grand old state of California has no right to protest against the action of European powers in withholding support from the big show when every one knows the Golden state refused to contribute a dollar for the erection of a state building. Other states were importuned to build but California stands on record as one of the few states that refrained from endorsing an exposition that will cost the taxpayers $15,000,000. If there is anything inherently wrong with the present management it is not too late to remedy it and to bury factional differences but there is not much time to be wasted in argument and discussions that can only serve to aggravate the situation and widen the breach. Nevada is interested in the fair. If it is a success this state will be one of the chief beneficiaries, and if it is a failure, Nevada will have to swallow the mortification of blowing herself for $150,000 without gaining results.

Divorcees are proving more popular as brides in California this year. There is nothing like getting the habit of marrying. The Reno widow has the bulge on the untrained inexperienced girl in the matrimonial race.

Salt Lake contractors for the Ely school building have their nerve in asking the school trustees to permit their own superintendent to approve construction. Considering the fact that the school trustees have no money to pay for the construction, it is fair to suppose the trustees will simply permit the contractors to build the school for a profit according to their work.

When you read reports from Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri it seems not so wonder if this little old dry desert is not so bad a place after all. At least there is plenty of water to be had for paying for it.

Krapp and Ormsby show no sign of reducing prices since articles of peace were signed by the Bulgarian alliance. China and Mexico are still in the ring.

Mother Rippey is a pretty good mother when she produced a hundred years ago that 1923 would be the year of mare.

Japan is running. Just over the way she will double her. No chance of offending Uncle Sam is going to be taken.

FATHER UPHELD BY JURY FOR KILLING RAVISHER

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—An enraged father who killed the man the courts had acquitted of attacking his 11 year old daughter was exonerated by a coroner's jury here today. The verdict said that Edward J. Duprey was "laboring under a great mental strain on account of injury believed done to his daughter by the deceased" when he shot and killed Henry Gronimus.

BUY A SET OF THERMOS BOTTLES

Thermos bottles should not be considered a luxury, for they are a means of economy. The conservation of cold or heat, as the case may be, protects liquids and renders them palatable when without the bottle they would be wasted.

They keep liquids hot or cold for twenty-four hours. On outing trips cold drinks can be had at any time.

In the sick room they are very valuable.

These bottles are such a remarkable convenience that you will never be without them after you have once used them.
